Dear NWEL Families,

As a precautionary measure, our district has decided to pause face to face instruction until November 30th. Our hope at the beginning of the year was to have enough devices for every student in our building. Those devices have been ordered but have not yet arrived. Our contingency plan is for students to continue work with curriculum books that students will be bringing home today. If you have a device available, your student may choose to simply log onto Schoology and complete assignments virtually (Schoology login information was sent home last week). Your student may also complete the assignment from the curriculum books in addition to the online component if you wish.

If your student was absent today, you may come into the building Monday, November 16th from 10-2. We will have your students materials ready and you may pick them up at the office.

Your student should be coming home today with Math and ELA curriculum work books. An assignment page will accompany these books so that you are aware of the assignments that need to be completed over the next two weeks.

Teachers will continue to communicate with you via multiple platforms. Teachers will be reaching out to your face to face students via Zoom (for students with devices), phone calls and email.

Please feel free to contact your teacher if you have any further questions. You may also reach out to the office or Mr. Bush or myself for any clarification that is needed. We are very fortunate to work with the team of professionals at NWEL and in our district.

Respectfully,

Eric Kelly, Ed. S, Principal   Aaron Bush, Assistant Principal
